INTRODUCTORY.

OFFICE OF CITY DIRECTORY,
COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO.,
June 15, 1888.

This is the fourth volume of the Colorado Springs, Manitou Springs and Colorado City Directory. A comparison of the present with earlier volumes published will give some idea of the rapid growth of these three cities. The united population at present is 11,000, of which Colorado Springs has 8,600, Manitou Springs 1,100, and Colorado City 1,300,—a gain of over 5,000 inhabitants during the last three years. The growth of these three cities was never more rapid and substantial than at the present, and the outlook is exceptionally brilliant.

It has been my aim to make this Directory as complete and reliable as the frequent changes will permit. I have spared neither labor nor expense to attain this object, and have reason to believe that I have, in the main, been successful.

The encouragement in kind words and liberal patronage warrants me to make it a regular annual publication.

I desire to express my thanks for many courtesies shown me, and I trust that a kind Providence may continue the prosperity of the places for which this work is intended.

Sincerely,

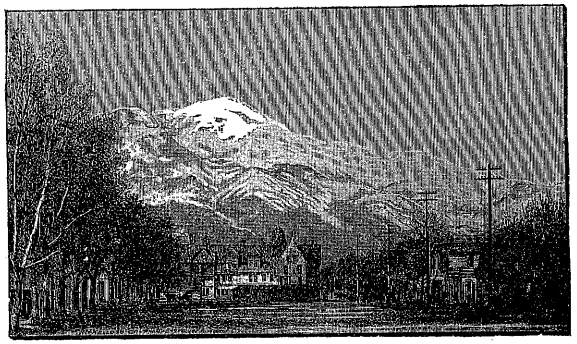

S. N. FRANCIS, Publisher.

COLORADO SPRINGS.

IT WOULD be impossible to imagine a more beautiful location for a city than that occupied by Colorado Springs. Just at the western edge of the great plains which stretch for six hundred miles westward from the Missouri river, midway between the blizzard-swept prairies of the North and the sun-baked plains of the South, lies a level mesa, or table land, between two streams, and on this the main part of the city is located. Seemingly almost level, there is in reality a decided slope to the east and south which affords good drainage and carries the irrigating water to all parts of the city. Northward the view is checked by a line of bluffs of coarse sandstone which rise about four miles from town, and through the gaps in its irregular outline one can see the wooded hills of the Arkansas-Platte divide, a long ridge running far out on the plains, a bulwark against winter storms and boreal winds. Eastward lie low, rolling hills, green or brown, as their grassy mantle changes with the seasons, and stretching on past lonely cattle and sheep ranches, and by still lonelier valleys haunted only by wild game or migrating herds, to the line of civilization which is making of this Great American Desert only a name. South of the city are two sharply defined low hills or buttes, locally named Mts. Washington and Lincoln, and beyond opens out the fertile Fountain valley, one of the richest agricultural sections of the State. Westward rise the mountains—the famous Rockies—at first in grassy slopes, then in higher hills, tree covered, then in mountains of bare rocks, where precipitious cliffs are alternated with masses of shattered rocks, and high above all else, dwarfed to seeming equality by neighboring mountains towers the rounded summit of Pike's

Peak, the theme of poetry, romance, and of reality more thrilling than either, a name familiar from our childhood and still a familiar word in all the land.

Many other points in Nature's wonderland possess peculiar advantages. In none is there so much variety in so small an area as in the vicinity of Colorado Springs, and no place is so well suited to be the headquarters from which expeditions may be made to all parts of the State. Seventy-five miles south of Denver and forty-five miles north of Pueblo, with each of which it is connected by three railroads, it is almost the geographical center of the State, and has easy and direct communication with all parts of the entire West. Colorado Springs is the a section of Colorado which has something to boast of beside climate and scenery and Pike's Peak. In the Divide country to the north are numerous fertile valleys where crops are raised without irrigation. and where well cultivated farms with comfortable buildings and here and there a pleasant school house suggest the East rather than the West. The eastern part of the county is at present mostly given over to the herdsmen and the range-riders, though in many places settlers are trusting to the increasing rainfall with a fair measure of success. Much of this land is underlaid by rich beds of coal and in several places, notably at Franceville, mines have been opened and a good quality of this valuable product obtained. In the western portion, El Paso has its museum of natural curiosities and mountain marvels, mineral springs, petrified forests, canons, parks, summits and forests, a legion of beautiful and healthful wonders, drawn up in dress parade for the world to enjoy, with the giant Pike's Peak, the historical land-mark of Colorado, at their head.

Colorado Springs, as a commercial point, is sustained by one of the most progressive and enterprising rural districts of the State. Within the limits of the County are such flourishing towns as Colorado City, Manitou, Monument, Fountain, Franceville, Florissant, Granger, Cascade, Palmer Lake, Glen Tobaccos of all kinds at McLain's.

Park, Husted, Edgerton, Widefield, Little Buttes, Gwillimville, and many smaller villages and settlements which look to "the Springs" for supplies. A noticeable improvement has been made lately in the commercial activity of the city, and a wholesale trade has already begun to grow up, which has extended beyond the limits of the County, and has a bright prospect for the future.

THE FOUNTAIN COLONY.

From this association of active and enterprising men, Colorado Springs really received its existence in 1871, and, regardless of expenditure of capital and time, they nourished it carefully through its struggling infancy to its now vigorous youth. To them more than to any other corporation should be given credit for the splendid schools, public parks and buildings, irrigating canals and public improvements of every kind that so characterize this city.

The founders of Colorado Springs have the satisfaction of knowing that they made the most beautiful city in the west. The streets which are laid out at right angles run north and south and east and west, the former being four miles, and the latter about two miles in length. They are from 100 to 150 feet in width. The blocks are each 400 feet square. The lots in the center of the business part of the city are 25 feet front by 190 feet deep. The residence lots are generally 50 feet by 190 feet, but many of those in the suburbs of the city are much larger. After the streets had been geometrically laid out, cottonwood trees were placed as sentinels of shade along their sides at intervals of twenty feet. Upwards of 7000 were located in this way in the beginning, and large additions have since been made. Numerous additions have from time to time been made to the city, and by a city ordinance these additions must be symmetrical with the original town site.

WATER SYSTEM.

Irrigating facilities were constructed to aid in the growth of trees, shrubbery, plants and lawn grass in the city, and at the same time be of sanitary service to the inhabitants. The canal which brings the water from the Fountain, is fourteen miles long, and is ample for a population of twenty thousand persons. Thus the city is well provided with an abundant supply, for domestic and sprinkling purposes, of soft, clear, pure, limpid water, fresh from the eternal springs gushing from the side of Pike's Peak. Water rates are lower than in any city or town in the State.

During the first five years of the existence of Colorado Springs $272,000 were expended in improvements. In order to be able to meet the expenditure, the profits accruing from the sale of two-thirds of the total number of lots in the town site were constituted an improvement fund. Lots were given by the founders of Colorado Springs to the different religious denominations, and for public institutions, all of which show the generous spirit with which the early years of the city was fostered, and how a liberal past has made a most progressive and prosperous present.

THE PUBLIC BUILDINGS

of Colorddo Springs, as might naturally be supposed, are of a very substantial and at the same time attractive character. The Colorado College is an imposing structure. The college provides a classical course, issuing in the degree of A. B., a literary course, and departments preparatory to both these courses. It has also a well equipped school of assaying and metallurgy, and various winter scientific courses. The public schools are as near perfect as it is possible to make them. The High school, Liller, Garfield and Lincoln schools are a credit to the place. The educational interests are kept up equal to any metropolitan city. The Antlers is as fine a hotel as any in the state, is built in the Queen Ann style at a cost of nearly $200,000. A fine opera house costing $80,000, with a seating capacity of 800, and finished in elaborate style, furnishes a place of amusement. The Deaf-Mute Institute, a state institution for the education of the mute and blind, is well managed, and a credit to the state and an ornament to the city. Room, furnish the socially inclined with comfortable and gentlemanly quarters to while away hours of listless leisure, while numerous smaller associations tend to drive away dull care in a healthy, moral, respectable way. The City Hall, Court House, Loretta Academy, St. Francis Hospital, Union and D. & R. G. depots, and many others, are conspicuous and substantial buildings. A "City of Homes," indeed, for there is no place in the west that will surpass Colorado Springs in this respect.

CHURCHES.

All the principal religious denominations are represented here. The Presbyterians, Methodists, Congregationalists, Baptists, Episcopalians, Christians, Methodists South, Catholics, A. M. E. Church, have all well built structures and large and growing congregations, and the Presbyterians and Congregationalists are now constructing new and more commodious quarters.

BUSINESS INTERESTS.

Colorado Springs does a large mercantile business. About $8,000,000 worth of groceries, flour, feed, grain, dry goods, hardware, lumber, drugs, boots and shoes, furnishing goods, etc., etc., were sold during the past year. In addition to this, over $250,000 worth of wool was marketed here. There is also a large trade in horses and beef cattle. El Paso county stands at the head of the wool producing counties of the state. The majority of the wool growers in the county reside in this city.

There are three banks in Colorado Springs—the First National, El Paso County, and National Exchange—all of which are sound financial institutions.

The city is lighted by electricity and gas, and telephone wires connect all parts of the city with Denver, Manitou and Pueblo.

The livery business is conducted on a large scale. There are eight establishments of this kind in the city. No finer turnouts can be found anywhere in the west.

There are two lines of street cars, one extending the entire length of the city, and the other to Colorado City, and soon to be extended to Manitou, a distance of five miles.

TEMPERANCE FEATURES.

There are no saloons and bars in the city, for this is a temperance town. The colony, after receiving the United States title to the town plat, incorporated the following strong provision in the deed of every lot and piece of ground thereafter sold:—

"That intoxicating liquors shall never be manufactured, sold or otherwise disposed of, as a beverage, in any place of public resort, in or upon the premises hereby granted."

Provision was also made in all deeds that if these conditions were violated, the land and buildings thereon should revert to the original owners. There have been violations of this clause, and the courts of this state and the Supreme court of the United States having decided in favor of the provision, valuable property has been lost to the owner.

RAILROADS.

Five railroads already enter the city, another is in course of construction, and others are in prospect. The Denver and Rio Grande main line, now enlarged to broad gauge, gives communication with Denver and Pueblo, and, by its branches and connections, with all parts of the mountains and the East. It also operates a branch line between Colorado Springs and Manitou. The Denver, Texas and Fort Worth was the second road to enter the city, but was not completed until the spring of 1888. It has already brought to us many visitors from the sunny south and substantial advantages in the reduction of seaboard freights. The Colorado Midland is especially a Colorado Springs road, its originators, constructors, officers and stockholders being for the most part residents of this city. By a direct line through the famous Ute Pass to Leadville, Aspen and Glenwood Springs, it opens up a country of surpassing wealth and beauty. When its western extensions are completed it will form a link in the shortest possible trans-continental railway. The great Atchison system has a branch between Pueblo and Denver known as the Denver and Santa Fe. Pullman sleeping cars run to and from Chicago and the Colorado Springs depot without change. The Chicago, Kansas and Nebraska, a branch of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, is now in course of construction and will enter the city from the east. It has already secured one hundred acres of land near the city for yards, coal sheds, etc. Missouri Pacific trains run through the city on the Rio Grande tracks and connect with the company's direct eastern line at Pueblo. Other roads have been already surveyed to the city from the east and some of these if not all, will doubtless be built.

SCENERY.

The scenery about Colorado Springs, embracing the mountains and the plains, is grand and beautiful. On the western side the mesas skirt the foothills, these swell to mountains which rise one above another till the magnificent dome of Pike's Peak, with an altitude of 14,136 feet above the level of the sea, stands alone above them all, "forever to claim kindred with the firmament, and be companioned by the clouds of heaven." The whole mountain is one barren mass of rock as we see it from the town, for the eastern face is open to us almost down to the foothills; deep perpendicular gorges and terrible ravines reveal themselves by narrow white rifts, snow hidden so deep that the sun cannot reach it. And yet among those piled-up rocks and in the seams and gorges, most beautiful flowers grow; tiny creatures, gorgeous in purple and gold, hugging their stern friends closely.

The summit is seldom if ever without its covering of snow; and often in mid-summer before the burning sun has quite had time to melt away the last thin folds, a cloud will stoop and spending itself in love and pity, leave a white mantle there.

above timber line, defines itself clearly against the sky in strong, dark contrast to its lofty neighbor.

To the left of the Cone and rising a little higher is Mt. Garfield, and behind its southern slope the rounded summit of Bald Mountain peers, white headed or bald as the snow covers it or melts away. Then for a space cones and curves give place to sharp ridges and angles, a group of these having for its queen Mount Rosa, a mountain as beautiful as its name. It is named for Rose Kingsley, the daughter of the late Canon Kingsley, of England. During the winter of 1871 Miss Kingsley and another lady were the only women in the colony just established at Colorado Springs.

Cheyenne Mountain is the last but not the least, for next to Pike's Peak it attracts the most attention. It is a gigantic inland promontory projecting into the ocean of the plains, out into the quiet places, beyond the incoming wave-like foothills.

CLIMATE.

The altitude of Colorado Springs is 6000 feet above the level of the sea; its protection from the north and west winds by the Divide on the north and the mountain range on the west, render the climate of this locality one of the most salubrious and delightful to be found in the world. Its altitude and proximity to the mountains temper the summer heat, and the nights during the season are always cool enough for comfort. During the autumn and winter months the atmosphere is dry and invigorating, with almost uninterrupted sunshine. It is both a summer and a winter resort. Thousands of invalids of all classes flock hither, and nearly all find relief from their respective ailments, while very many, particularly those suffering from asthma, throat and lung troubles, dyspepsia and general debility, are permanently cured. In a word, Colorado Springs is the choicest gem of the Centennial state, is situated amid the grandest natural pictures of America, and its 8600 inhabitants are as wealthy, liberal, enterprising and intelligent as are to be found on the face of the globe.

Atkinson's Midland Collection

"To him, who in the love of nature, holds
Communion with her visible forms, she speaks
A various language; for his gayer hours
She has a voice of gladness and a smile
And eloquence of beauty, and she glides
Into his darker musings with a mild
And healing sympathy that steals away
Their sharpness ere he is aware."

WOULD you recall the glad associations "in the love of nature," or share with a friend her "various language?" This may be done most perfectly in the grace and beauty of fern and flower, "nature's subtlest forms."

In these collections of pressed Ferns and Wild Flowers of the Rocky Mountain Region, are offered various arrangements of special fitness for Souvenirs of FRIENDSHIP, BIRTHDAY, REMEMBRANCE, EASTER or CHRISTMASTIDE, as well as for reference and study in FAMILY, SCHOOL and COLLEGE circles.

By improved methods of pressing, the flowers are preserved in natural beauty of form and color to a marked degree.

FOR BROADMOOR Full cream, 5¼ to 7 lbs. for family use, direct to MOUNTED in books on leaves of cardboard or heavy doubled paper, each regular volume contains ten leaves, representing as many different species. Tied with ribbon, in lithographed covers, showing in exquisite design several species of our flora and two views of noted mountain peaks, each volume is placed in a strong and handsome box which protects from injury and preserves in excellent shape.

Sent to any address prepaid on receipt of price:

No.	2	7 x 9 inches	$2 00	No. 22	double volume $3 50
"	3	6½ x 8¼ inches	1 75	" 33	double volume 3 00
"	4	4¼ x 6½ inches	1 25	" 44	double volume 2 00
"	5	5¼ x 5¼ inches	1 25	" 55	double volume 2 00
"	6	4¼ x 5¼ inches	1 00	" 6½	half volume 60
"	7	4¼ x 4¼ inches	75	" 7½	half volume 50
"	8	3¼ x 4¼ inches	60	" 8½	half volume 35

Special arrangement of Nos. 22, 33, 44 and 55, fifty cents extra per volume, in which each specimen is chosen with care as a true representative of species. An index is taken and furnished in duplicate that by reference given the collection may be ordered in duplicate or additional volumes non-duplicate, and in orders of two or more volumes an extra case is furnished for keeping the whole in compact shape.

These arrangements in addition to No. 1 (the standard botanical size) are meeting with hearty favor and appreciation, as affording in convenient and standard shape an indexed collection of 20 to 200 or more species without duplicates.

Special collections from places of interest, and arrangement to order in any style Orders by mail solicited, and satisfaction guaranteed. Correspondence solicited.

COLORADO CITY.

THE town of Colorado City is beautifully located midway between Colorado Springs and Manitou Springs, being two and one-half miles from either place. The town was regularly incorporated in the fall of 1858, during the Pike's Peak gold excitement, and was made the capital of the territory in 1861, by the first territorial legislature. Ex-Governor Gilpin was governor at the second session which met in June, 1862. Shortly after Governer Evans was appointed by the president, he adjourned the legislature to Golden and afterwards to Denver, the latter of which, by virtue of its advantages and controlling influences, became the capital. The building in which the first territorial legislature met stood in the rear of where the bottling works are now located. El Paso was first recognized as a county by Governor Gilpin. The court house, a large brick building erected in 1872, is still standing, and is used as a school house at present. In the contest for the location of the county seat, Colorado Springs gained the day in 1873. After the removal of the capital and county seat the town soon lost its prestige, and was only peopled by a class who could not get away, or who had made homes here and did not wish to leave them. During the last eighteen months there has been a wonderful change in this thriving little town, which is now destined to become one of the leading manufacturing places in the state. The population has increased during the last year from about 400 to nearly 1,500. The principal reason for this wonderful growth is the establishment of the machine shops and round houses of the Colorado Midland Railroad during the last year, which gives employment to a large number of hands. The Colorado Stucco, Brick and Cement Works is a leading industry of the place, and manufacture a superior cement, which finds a ready market in nearly all the neighboring states. The stone quarries just outside of the city limits furnish stone of every size and almost every color—purple, red, grey and white sandstone. Large quantities of this stone is shipped throughout the west and as far east as Kansas City for building purposes. Two locations have already been secured for smelters, and the prospects are that their erection will be a settled fact at no distant day. The position of Colorado City at the mouth of the Midland entrance to the mountains makes it the natural smelting point for ore mined in regions tributary to it. Probably there is no other town in the state that possesses better advantages for manufacturing than Colorado City. The water supply is good, the Fountain flowing directly through it, and the Colorado Springs ditch flows immediately north of the town, and the large water main extends under Colorado avenue, the principal street in the town. Many large and substantial buildings have been erected during the past year, and many other improvements made, such as street railway to Colorado Springs, electric lights, etc. The city being out of debt, taxation is consequently very low. In short, Colorado City is a wide-awake and prosperous town of nearly 1,500 inhabitants, and is comprised of a good class of people, who are liberal, moral and intelligent.

MANITOU SPRINGS.

AT THE foot of the ever-famous Pike's Peak, whose snow-clad summit rears its head above the clouds, nestles the beautiful town of Manitou Springs, already known throughout the world, and destined soon to become the most fashionable summer resort in America. Its altitude is 6,400 feet above the level of the sea, and it has about eleven hundred inhabitants, with churches, schools and pleasant residences, and six large, first-class hotels,—also, numerous other small hotels and boarding houses. During the summer months it swarms with life, its hotels overflow, and private houses take in strangers; summer cottages and tents are perched like birds' nests on the hillsides, among the rocks and in the cañons, and in every available place.

It is the wonderful mineral springs that have so largely added to the fame of this delightful resort. What was first chosen as a pleasant place for quiet homes, has become a sanitary retreat, whose remedial results have attracted the attention of scientists all over the world. Truly is it called the "Saratoga of the West," but it possesses worth of waters that no Saratoga east, north, or south, or Spa on the continent posseses, and the day is not far distant when the great medicinal merits of these mountain springs will become more generally understood, and the ailing and sick of all Christendom will be wending their way thitherward to secure from nature simple prescriptions more effective in bodily and mental ailments than that which the combined scientific knowledge of all the medical schools in the world can furnish.

This mineral water is now being bottled and is offered to the public abroad in carbonated form by the Manitou Mineral Water, Bath and Park Company. It is said to retain its freshness and sparkle after being bottled longer than any other natural water in the world.

For those who admire the grand in nature, the mountains tower in the western heavens, marshaled and captained by Pike's Peak; for those who are moved by vastness, the mysterious plains stretch boundless to the east; for those who love gentler aspects, the valley of the Fontaine qui Bouille, glowing with greenery and planked with flowers, affords perennial pleasure.

Manitou Springs has also claims as a winter resort, which are becoming recognized; and it will soon be regarded as it undoubtedly is, the best winter resort in the west, especially for invalids; being sheltered by the mountains from the cold northeast winds, which are the prevailing storm winds of the state, and is in every respect more comfortable and pleasant than cities and towns situated on the open plains. Having a gravel soil, there is no alkaline dust to irritate the throat and lungs. The stillness of the atmosphere and continuous warm sunshine throughout the day more than compensate for the few minutes' earlier sunset. With its bright warm sunshine, fresh air, pure water, good food, and superior tonic springs, Manitou Springs has claims which are paramount to those of any other resort in America.

The Iron Springs Hotel is an ideal summer resort, being situated amid the most picturesque scenery to be found in Colorado. It is truly modern in all its appointments, having Edison's incandescent lights in every room, and the entire house is uniformly heated by steam, furnished with new styles of walnut and cherry sets, and bedding being unexcelled.

The Barker, Mansions, Cliff and Manitou are all commodius and handsome hotels, elegantly furnished, beautifully located, and will provide all the modern comforts and conveniences to those who may desire to visit this popular resort. There are also numerous smaller hotels, boarding houses, cottages, where tourists and invalids can find pleasant quarters at a more reasonable cost.

Society here is represented by many of its best people. The evenings are made merry with hops and social gatherings, and delightful walks among the myriad attractions this place affords.

There are three churches here,—the Congregational, Episcopal, and a Catholic,—all of which have new and comfortable edifices, substantial and growing congregations.

The Manitou Springs Journal is a bright, newsy and neatly printed paper, published weekly by Mr. H. H. Grafton. During "the season" a daily edition is published. The liberal business men of that place show their appreciation for it by giving it a liberal support.

There are two railroads to Manitou, the Colorado Midland and the Denver and Rio Grande, and trains run to and from here every few hours. It is also connected with other places by a complete telegraph and telephone system.

Once domiciled in Manitou, the way to enjoy it to the utmost is in the saddle. The riding horses are excellent. Comfortable saddles for ladies and well trained horses are furnished by all the livery stables.

There are more points of interest near Manitou Springs than any other watering place in the world. Among the places which should be visited by all who come to this locality, are:

Cheyenne Mountain, over the new carriage road leading through beautiful mountain scenery to Beaver Creek and by the Seven Lakes to the summit of Pike's Peak.

South Cheyenne Cañon to the Seven Falls and North Cheyenne Cañon.

Ute Pass and the Rainbow Falls.
Iron Springs in Engleman's Cañon.
Manitou Grand Caverns, Ute Pass.
Manitou Cañon and the grotto therein.
Summit of Pike's Peak, either by Bear or Ruxton Creeks
Williams' Cañon and Cave of the Winds.
Manitou Park in the mountains.
Garden of the Gods.
Glen Eyre.
Monument Park.
Blair Athol.
Crystal Park.

In addition to these there are many well known localities, scores of cañons, caves, water-falls and charming nooks, which the sojourner for health or pleasure, can seek out for himself.
