Street Guide of Colorado Springs.

A street number is assigned to each twenty-five feet of frontage in a block and a separate hundred is assigned to each block. Even numbers are given to the west and north sides of streets; odd numbers are given to the east and south sides.

Cascade avenue divides streets into East and West; Pike's Peak avenue and its western extension, Washington avenue, divide them into North and South.

In the first list of streets the number indicates the relative location with Cascade, Pike's Peak and Washington avenues; the short and less important ones are shown as they occur between the more important ones. The second list shows them arranged in alphabetical order and gives a description of them.
